

Clouds Of War Over Near East

WAR IMMINENT
AS TURKS TURN DOWN TREATY

Greece and Turkey Renew
War Plans and Are Moving Troops

BRITISH PREPARED

Law May Make Further
Concessions to Turks to
Avert Hostilities

London, Feb. 5.—Menacing clouds of war were hanging low over the Near East today as a result of the collapse of the Lausanne peace conference through refusal of the Turks to sign the treaty. Advisers from Athens and Constantinople said that both Greece and Turkey have renewed war preparations and are moving troops.

Great Britain is prepared for any eventuality in the Near East. If the Turks carry out their threat to resume hostilities the British are prepared for it with a great fleet and a big army massed in Turkish ports.

The general impression is that Great Britain will sit tight for the time being, awaiting future developments. No move will be made in any direction until after the return of Lord Curzon from Lausanne and the reconvening of parliament next week.

Although some of the newspapers say that an outbreak of war is possible at once, belief is growing that Premier Bonar Law and his close advisers will make further concessions to the Turks rather than risk British participation in Near East hostilities. Despite the fact that it would likely lead to downfall of the present government, it is probable that Premier Law will withdraw the British troops from Constantinople and Mosul, rather than incur war.

Military experts declare that while the British military position at Constantinople is not entirely secure, the British could hold Chanak against assaults by the whole Turkish army.

Heavily Garrisoned
Since their occupation of Chanak (on the narrows of the Dardanelles) the British have transferred the garrison into a second Gibraltar. The garrison is supported by heavy long range guns and a gigantic fleet anchored in the Dardanelles behind the land forces.

The breakdown of the Lausanne conference throws further strain upon the Anglo-French entente, as indications are growing that France is preparing to make a separate treaty with Turkey.

The only optimistic report from Lausanne was a dispatch saying that "a hear possibility exists that Ismet Pasha may yet sign the treaty." This was followed by advice saying that Ismet had departed for Angora, accompanied by his colleagues.

Greeks Are On Guard
Athens, Feb. 5.—Greek army commanders in western Thrace were ordered today to be on their guard against Turkish attacks, now that the Lausanne peace conference has been ruptured.

Greene has approximately 70,000 soldiers massed in Thrace against about 15,000 Turks.

Greek officials declared that if hostilities are resumed the Turks must make the first war like move.

Turkish forces in Thrace are constantly being reinforced. Military technicians from Russia and artillery from Odessa are being landed at Black sea ports in large numbers.

Belief exists in some quarters that Turkey is making a huge bluff and does not intend to reopen the war unless a conflict begins in central Europe. In such an event the Turks would take advantage of the general turbulence throughout Europe to renew hostilities.

Aviators Will Attempt Another Endurance Test

Dayton, O., Feb. 5.—Lieutenants John A. Macready and Oakley G. Kelly of McCook Field will hop off tomorrow from Wilbur Wright Field, in an effort to hang up a mark for all other aviators in the world to shoot at.

They will use the army transport, T-2, in which they made an unofficial record of little more than 35 hours at San Diego, Cal., last fall.

Orville Wright and K. M. Lane of the Dayton Wright Airplane Company will act as observer and timer for the Federated International Aeronautique to make whatever record that may be made official.

A Frenchman now holds the record of 34 hours, on the grounds that the San Diego flight was unofficial because there were no observers on hand to check it.

Tomorrow's flight will be made around a circular course of which Wilbur Wright field is the center.

Legislators Make Plans To Finish Work In March

Cole Bill, Said to Be Sponsored by Ku Klux Klan Will Be Voted On By Senate This Week—Work On Budget Also to Start This Week.

Columbus, Feb. 5.—With a view to winding up the work of the state legislature in March, if possible, and to pass only a few new laws, legislative leaders this week are expected to exert material influence through the joint sitting committee, representing both senate and house.

Work on the state budget for the next two years is scheduled to be started this week by the house finance committee which has practically finished its visits to state institutions. Governor Donahy may be asked by the committee to have state budget superintendent Brennenman sit with the committee during consideration of the different items making up the budget.

A report is expected to be made this week to the legislature by the special joint committee which went to Pennsylvania and Maryland last week to study the operation of gasoline tax laws.

Some time this week, the senate is expected to vote on the question of passing the coal bill which requires county auditors to publish lists of tax exempt property in each county. The bill passed the house. Among the measures up for passage in the house this week is the Harding bill requiring secret societies to file lists of their officers and various meeting places with the secretary of state and to keep a roster of members at meeting places open for public inspection. The bill is credited with being aimed at the Ku Klux Klan.

HARDING WILL TRAVEL DURING SUMMER RECESS

President Expects to Visit
Alaska and Pacific Coast
On Vacation

HAS BEEN VERY BUSY

Western Politicians Say
President Should Visit
Coast for Good Party

Washington, Feb. 5.—With Congress packing its trunks for a long summer vacation—the first in eight years—President Harding is planning to spend a good part of the approach, summer swinging around some of the circuits he neglected during the campaign of 1920, and which he has been too occupied to undertake since his entry into the White House two years ago.

Mr. Harding has not been what is known as "a travelling president." Aside from a couple of vacation trips to Florida and week end jaunts not far from Washington, Mr. Harding has done little travelling since he became president. He probably has delivered fewer speeches away from Washington than any chief executive in recent years.

The president's friends explain this on the ground that few presidents have been so engrossed with public work as has Mr. Harding. He has had congress on his hands almost continuously since he was inaugurated, which fact coupled with the multiplicity of foreign complications that have beset the administration has combined to keep the president's nose fairly close to the grindstone for two years.

Barring unforeseen complications in the foreign situation this summer will see Mr. Harding on the Pacific coast, according to tentative plans now being formulated. The president has not fully decided whether to undertake the Alaskan trip this summer, but is favorably impressed with the idea, and if possible he will go, including in the journey a swing through the west.

There are some political arguments of no small weight being brought to bear on the White House in favor of some western travelling. It has been pointed out that most of the so-called "unrest" in the country originated through the great grain and livestock belt that lies west of the Mississippi as exemplified in the election of such "progressive" senators as Shipstead of Minnesota and Frazier of North Dakota and Wheeler of Montana, last November, and the Republican party prophets believe that a presidential journey through the west would do much "for the good of the order," as one administration leader expressed it.

TORPEDO RUM SHIPS AND ARM SEABOARD TO FOIL SMUGGLERS

Washington, Feb. 5.—Put United States destroyers off eastern coast to torpedo the rum smugglers and arm the seaboard with 15 inch rifles that will drive the whisky fleet 30 miles out—then America will be in a measure safe for prohibition.

That's the way the board of temperance of the Methodist Episcopal church would solve liquor smuggling. William J. Bryan, endorsed the recommendation of the temperance board today and added that foreign ships with liquor on board should not be permitted to enter our harbors under any circumstances.

The temperance board said that the three mile limit, outside of which the liquor ships now await opportunity to transport their wares ashore, should be extended as far as the heaviest artillery can shoot.

Operations of the rum runners were described as impudent warfare against the government. The only solution is use of the navy to capture or sink whisky ships the temperance board said.

Legislation demanded by the board to curb violation of prohibition and narcotic laws included deportation of aliens convicted of violation; a law to make purchaser of liquor criminally liable with the seller; further restricted immigration; United States to lead in international control of narcotics; public officials to conform their habits to the prohibition law.

LIMA MARDI GRAS FESTIVITIES BEGIN

Lima Feb. 5.—Lima's first annual pageant of progress and Mardi gras opened at noon today. The week of merrymaking, replete with stirring and extraordinary feats, was ushered in a blaze of glory when King Rex I, monarch of the kingdom of joy, entered the city. Surrounded by the knights of his court and a mighty cavalcade of splendor, the festival ruler took possession of the city.

At Market and McDonald Street the monarch exchange salutations with the queen of the kingdom of joy received the keys of the city from Mayor Cunningham.

A formal opening of the doors of the tabernacle, where numerous features will be shown during the week, took place at 1 P. M., followed by formal presentation of the allegorical beauty parade and fashion review on the stage and board walk.

Thousands of pleasure seekers will join in a grand open air ball as the stupendous production is brought to a close Saturday.

URGES CHURCHES TO ADVERTISE

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Every church should set aside money to be used for newspaper advertising. Rev. J. T. Brabner, of the committee on conservation and advance of the Methodist Episcopal church, said in an address here yesterday.

"The church can send its message in the papers to non-church readers and to those of its members detained at the home because of sickness, business and other causes," he said.

"The preacher speaks to hundreds, while the newspapers speak to thousands and millions."

"Church members should assist, editors, but criticism of editors and editorial policies of news is harmful. The pulpit and press should pull together and not apart."

TRACE LIQUOR LEAK TO CUBAN LEGATION

This is the Cuban Legation in Washington, where a big "liquor leak" is reported to have been unearthed by "dry" enforcement officials. It is alleged Washington bootleggers have reaped immense profits from the sale of liquors obtained from servants there. The Legation, as in the case of all foreign legations, is considered foreign territory and can import as much liquor as it wishes. The Cuban Charge d'Affairs has called at the State Department in connection with the charge.

DEAN D. WESLAR, OSBORN GARAGE OWNER SUICIDES EARLY SUNDAY

Dies After Shooting Self in Head with Revolver—Despondency Believed Cause—Had Served With Army in France.

Despondent over ill health, Dean D. Weslar, 25, garage owner of Osborn, and World War Veteran, shot and killed himself at his home in Old Osborn, Sunday morning about ten o'clock. The young man's act was a shock to relatives and friends, who had not noted his condition although acquainted with his poor health.

Weslar, with his father-in-law, who was visiting at his home, had gone to his garage early Sunday morning, and had returned to his home, about ten o'clock, Weslar said that he was going to the basement to attend to the furnace, and a short time later the shot was heard. He was found with a bullet wound in his head, a .38 revolver lying by his side. He lived for about fifty minutes after found.

Weslar, with his wife, and small child, resided in Osborn, on the old site, the village formerly occupied. He was well liked throughout the community, friends being unacquainted with any condition, with the exception of ill health, that would cause him to take his life. His brother is a patient at the tuberculosis hospital at Cincinnati, and it is thought that he feared he also would contract the disease, since he had suffered from ill health for several months, since being discharged from the army. He served overseas. He was born at New Paris, Ohio, and is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters.

Dr. R. L. Haines of Paintersville, county coroner, was called to view the body Sunday afternoon and said that death was due to despondency resulting from ill health.

START SURVEY OF DAMAGE TOLL TAKEN BY BIG TIDAL WAVE

Honolulu, Feb. 5.—A survey started today was expected to reveal the full extent of the damage caused to the Hawaiian Island group by the five tidal waves which Saturday dealt death and destruction.

Property loss is expected to exceed $2,500,000. Loss of life is believed to have been confined to Hilo, where twelve are thought to have lost their lives although a definite check has not been completed.

All of the dead were Japanese and included one child washed from a sampan which was caught on the crest of the first huge wave.

The island of Maui was hardest hit, according to reports reaching here by the tidal waves. Damages to the city and harbor of Kahului was estimated today at $1,000,000 and damage to the island at $1,500,000.

Complete reports were lacking early today from all of the islands due to the fact that the mutual inter island radio does not operate on Sunday.

Fears for the safety of Gov. W. R. Farrington and a party of friends were allayed last night when they returned from a week end fishing trip safely.

The maximum height of the tidal waves was apparently fifteen feet reported by the island of Kahui. Some reports reported the first of the series of waves most violent while others said the second reached the greatest height.

Shipping losses were comparatively small.

ONE KILLED AND 5 HURT IN JOY RIDE

Marion, Feb. 5.—George Vale, 2176 East Fifty Street, Cleveland, was instantly killed; Charles Gettes, 17, Mayfield road, South Euclid, was seriously hurt and Bert Cheney, Delaware, had his skull broken when their auto turned turtle south of Marion early today. Cheney is not expected to live. Three other Delaware men were injured but not seriously. They are Arthur Rorer, Rorer was driving. According to the police the occupants of the automobile were on a joy riding hootch party.

TO PERMIT SALE OF LIQUOR

Moscow, Feb. 5.—As an economic measure the council of commissioners has decided to permit the manufacture and sale of liquors containing up to 20 per cent alcohol. Exclusive rights to manufacture liquor will be vested in the state vodka factories.

HARDING'S SISTER SAILS

New York, Feb. 5.—Miss Abigail Harding and Mrs. H. H. Votaw, sisters of President Harding, sailed for Buenos Ayres on the steamer Pan-American. They plan to stop off at Rio de Janeiro on their way home to visit the exposition.

NEW NEAR EAST PEACE CONFERENCE IS PLANNED

Turks Have Not Been Officially Notified That Lausanne Conference is Ended—Russians Elated Over Failure of Meeting.

Lausanne Feb. 5.—Efforts may be made immediately to convene another Near East peace conference to avert resumption of war in the near east, it was reported here today. When the French delegation, headed by M. Bompard, departed for Paris, it was announced that no official notification had been served upon Ismet Pasha head of the Turkish envoys, that the Lausanne conference was at an end.

M. Bompard refused to discuss the possibility of a separate treaty between France and Turkey. The situation here was one of confusion. The Turks claimed that the conference was not yet officially adjourned because they had not been notified it was at an end.

Marquis Di Garroni, head of the Italian delegation will remain until tomorrow. He intimated Italy may attempt to bring about renewal of peace negotiations to prevent an outbreak of hostilities.

The American observers are still working desperately to save the situation. Richard Washburn Child, head of the American delegation, Joseph C. Grew and Admiral Mark Bristol, U. S. N., conferred until late in the night with Ismet Pasha.

M. Massigli, French secretary general said he would remain in Lausanne so long as there is an opportunity for a renewal of peace negotiations.

Eleutherios Ventzelous, and his Greek colleagues were plainly angry over the numerous concessions made to the Turks by the allies. They said Greece was ready for renewal of the war, but was loath to undertake hostilities without pledges of outside support.

M. Tchitcherine and other members of the Russian delegation were elated over the collapse of the conference. It was evident that they took credit for the first stand of the Turks against allied terms. Russia has offered her support to Turkey and has offered to make a separate treaty with Angora.

The next move in the near east

INVADERS KILL MANY GERMANS AT INGELHEIM

Reports of Horrors Committed by French Soldiers Given Out

LITTLE GIRL KILLED

Russia Said To Be Preparing to help Germany In Spring

Berlin, Feb. 5.—No official confirmation had been received here up to noon today of the report from Mayence that nine Germans were killed by French soldiers during rioting at Ingelheim. According to the report a German mob attacked the French after a train, manned by French railroaders was detained at Ingelheim.

Intense indignation has been aroused by news from Essen, that a little German school girl was killed by a French corporal near the Dusseldorf railway station. The Germans claim that the French fired upon a group of school children wounding one, in addition to the child killed. The French commandant informed the mayor of the town that the shooting was accidental and that the corporal would be court martialled.

In the middle Rhine district the French have extended their occupation to include Kehl, Offenbourg and Appenweier.

Reports of German casualties at the hands of the French have been arriving in a steady stream. A street railway conductor at Oberhausen was shot dead.

A German civilian was reported to have been killed by a French sentry at Broeckten.

At Essen the French fired machine guns over the heads of a crowd of German communists.

Russian students at Petrograd carried out an anti-French demonstration and called upon French workers to resist France's military policy.

A sensational and unconfirmed report originated at Helsingfors, that Russia is preparing for war in the spring on the pretext that France and her allies are preparing for the dismemberment of Germany.

According to advices from Salsburg, C. echo-Slovakia is recalling citizens of military age from Austria giving rise to belief that Czechoslovakia in agreement with France, will make a hostile demonstration against Bavaria.

SEEK LIGHT ON LIQUOR

Washington, Feb. 5.—Resolutions calling upon the state and treasury departments for reports as to the amount of liquor imported by the various embassies and legations in Washington since national prohibition became effective were introduced by Representative Cramton. Specifically the treasury department would be asked for a statement in detail of all diplomatic liquor importations.

DUNGEONS AT BOYS' INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL ORDERED ABANDONED

Columbus, Feb. 5.—Welfare Director Harper has ordered Captain C. E. Rowe, superintendent of the Boys' Industrial school, to discontinue use of dungeon cells recently established as a means of disciplining unruly boys.

Harper in a letter to Rowe says cells in the school are in a building reached only through two padlocked doors and two rooms. "I shudder to think what would happen," Harper says, "if this building should catch fire." He charges that these cells are not furnished with beds, nor even benches, and are only a few feet in dimensions, so boys neither can sit down nor lie down without sitting or lying on the floor.

Captain R. U. Hastings, former superintendent of the school, was dismissed several months ago for alleged mistreatment of wards.

FORMER SING SING WARDEN TO SPEAK

Cleveland, Feb. 5.—Prison conditions in Ohio will be discussed at a conference at Oberlin Feb. 15 to 17, and purposes of which were outlined here by Professor Herbert A. Miller of Oberlin college. Eleven experts, including Thomas Mott Osborne, former warden of Sing Sing prison, are among the scheduled speakers.

"The purpose of the conference is to make effective through intelligent organized public opinion the administration of our penal system, which because of prevailing popular ignorance and lack of interest has failed to keep pace with the best thought and practice, and often has retarded, rather than promoted, the ends of justice," Professor Miller said in a statement. "We have no axes to grind nor backs to chop off; nor have we any pet theory to advocate."

McADOO CALLED ON MORSE TRIAL

Washington, Feb. 5.—William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, and other prominent officials of the war time government, will be called to testify in defense of Charles W. Morse, indicted ship builder, when trial of the first of the so-called "war frauds" cases is begun here tomorrow.

Attorneys for Morse and his co-defendants among them his three sons, said today, the charges against Morse would be shaken by the testimony of an imposing array of defense witnesses. Morse and his co-defendants in the organization of the Virginia ship building corporation are alleged to have defrauded the government out of approximately $10,000,000 in ship construction during the war. The indictment charges them with converting to their own use much government material, and with the sale of other material, and converting the proceeds to their personal use. The indictment returned a year ago, charges thirty "overt acts."

SENATOR CANNON UNABLE TO SPEAK BUT PULPIT FILLED

Confined to his bed in Pittsburgh, Pa., with an attack of grip, Ex-Senator Frank Cannon, former U. S. Senator from Utah, was unable to fill his speaking engagement at the Second United Presbyterian Church, this city Sunday morning.

Mr. Cannon's failure to come to this city, was only the third time during his career on the public speaking platform, that he was forced to abandon an engagement. Word received from the National Reform Bureau, under whose auspices Mr. Cannon was being sent to this city, said that, providing his health permitted, he would be sent to this city by the Bureau in about two weeks to fill the appointment.

Dr. James S. Martin, of Pittsburgh was sent to this city to take Mr. Cannon's place, appearing for two addresses at 9:30 and 10:30 o'clock at the church auditorium. The grip epidemic made large inroads into the attendance at both addresses, only a fairly good-sized audience attending both meetings.

"Mormonism" was the subject of Dr. Martin's first address, his statements on this nation question including, "The political propaganda being conducted by Mormonism, is at its root really inconsistent with patriotism. The book of Mormon discipline and government is impure in trend, and the promises given by the State of Utah, at its entrance into the Union have not been kept, either in connection with polygamy or kindred evils."

Dr. Martin appeared for his second address on "Good Citizenship" at 10:30 o'clock. He took the thought that unless governments are founded on Christianity, no matter how good citizens they have, the central government is liable to become erratic, and that the history of different nations, today, is a living testimony to the fact that no nation is safe that does not recognize Christ."

Dr. Martin went to Dayton, Sunday evening, where he filled Ex-Senator Cannon's engagement.

MRS. SARAH YEAGER DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Mrs. Sarah Yeager, 37, wife of T. W. Yeager died at her home on the W. W. Cresswell farm, one and one-half miles east of Cedarville, Sunday morning at 3:45 o'clock, after a two weeks' illness, suffering from pneumonia.

She is survived by her husband, her parents and one daughter, Marie, aged 12. The daughter is also ill with pneumonia and in a critical condition. The remains will be taken to Elmville, Highland County, Ohio, Tuesday, where services and interment will be held.

Journeys Through Southern Ireland

By DANIEL O'CONNELL

International News Service Staff Correspondent

Dublin, Feb. 5.—How is the South of Ireland faring after the terror of the last eight months? Badly, I'm afraid. Unemployment, demoralization and robbery are prevalent in many places and, although the Free State Government is gradually bringing conditions under control, the process is slow and tedious.

I have just returned from a trip to Killarney, the famous Irish tourist resort. Traveling to Killarney from Dublin under prevailing conditions is not altogether ideal. There are risks and fears every mile of the long, rocky road.

How incongruous it seems in all the wonderful beauty of Killarney to think and speak of death! One can scarcely conceive such a possibility. To be there to know, to see, to hear the stories that are told of the hardships the people have to endure, of the many conflicts, of the coming of death—it all seems like bringing a terrible hell into a delightful heaven. And yet it is the bad, naked truth.

Killarney, the beautiful, the "Eden of the West," the blessed and pampered pet of nature, has suffered most, and is now slowly recovering from her agony, fear and dread.

This journey in the south I will try to divide into three stages—the three stages which are necessary to complete the journey—namely Limerick, Tralee and Killarney. Speaking in broad terms, the situation in Limerick is somewhat improved. There is nothing, however, in the nature of general normality. A big crop of weeds, which will require a good deal of time and trouble to remove is indicative of general conditions.

Six months ago, when I was in Limerick, the fighting by the Free State soldiers was in full swing outside the city. Now it is like visiting a new country. The war on the railroads by the Republicans had not become very acute then, yet it was impossible to get into Limerick by rail. The nearest I could get was Nenagh, and from there I was compelled to get a push bicycle and had to work around through Clare into Limerick. No automobile could get through, as

Editor's Note—Following is the first of a series of three articles by Daniel O'Connell, Dublin correspondent of the International News Service, who has just completed a journey through the southern part of Ireland. In the appended article the first stage of the journey (the trip to Limerick) is described.

The roads had been trenched and mined.

The journey is still slow and long, and in many places the engineer has to slow down his engine and crawl over temporarily repaired breaches, but the trip can be made by rail.

When I started out from Dublin recently I set myself the task of counting the number of broken bridges and the number of signal cabins and railroad buildings which have been burned. Before I got to Limerick I realized the futility of the job and threw it up in despair. What I should have done was to count the number that had not been destroyed.

There is scarcely a bridge or a railroad depot between Limerick and Dublin that has not been damaged. The total cost of the property destroyed is estimated at $6,000,000 or more. Every quarter of a mile is guarded by a little group of Free State soldiers. It was cold and miserable.

Showers of sleet, snow and rain, accompanied by a biting blast, made one shiver, and yet along the railroad, living in dugouts and in improvised shelters of every kind, were the troops of the Free State. In one place they were stationed under a rudely constructed hut beneath which swirled the waters of a swollen stream. At all the stations guards are mounted day and night, and it is solely due to their presence that travel is possible at all.

Limerick city, however, is nearly normal so far as business is concerned. I had scarcely left the train when I ran into a scene of bustling commercial activity reminiscent of the days of peace. Last July it had been almost impossible to obtain a room in a hotel, as most of the hotels were closed. Now they are open and eager to accommodate the traveler. Business is beginning to boom. The courts are open and the Free State troops and the Civic Guard are maintaining condition which, in contrast to those of seven months ago, might truthfully be described as peaceful.

HARDING TO URGE PLAN FOR FUNDING DEBT BE ACCEPTED

Washington, Feb. 5.—The plan for funding Great Britain's war-time debt to the United States was turned over to President Harding by the debt funding commission. Accompanying the plan was a statement by the commission suggesting methods of congressional action translating the results of the commission's negotiations into law.

New rumblings of opposition to the plan were heard in both the house and the senate. At the same time Senator Lodge, the Republican leader in the senate, visited the white house to discuss the situation with President Harding, and Representative Mondell of Wyoming, the house Republican leader, conferred with Representative Burton of Ohio, a member of the funding commission, as to ways and means of handling the settlement legislation in the house.

Increasing evidence developed that the house Democrats planned to oppose the interest rates contained in the settlement plan, on the grounds that they constituted a discrimination. Several of them declared that the rates proposed to be applied on the British debt were materially lower than the United States pays on its own obligations.

It is announced here that the president will submit the British debt settlement agreement to congress, probably tomorrow. While he has not yet made a definite decision, the expectation is that he will make the presentation in person to a joint session of the house and senate in the house chamber.

Members of the American debt commission said that the exact form of the legislation which congress would be asked to pass remained to be determined. However, it will take one of two forms, a general amendment of the existing statute or a formal approval of the British agreement only. While anticipating opposition in both the house and senate, administration officials and Republican congressional leaders appeared confident of favorable action by congress before the expiration of the present session on March 4. Debate is expected to develop many details of the negotiations between the British and American commissions which have been withheld thus far.

The first step in the legislative program in congress will be a reference of the subject to the house ways and means committee. Prompt action is forecast in that committee with a report to the house probably by the end of this week or early next week. Under the general rules, house action will be prompt and the whole matter may be ready for the senate within 10 days after the president submits the agreement.

RURAL DISTRICTS PAY TOO MUCH INTO COMPENSATION FUND

Columbus, Feb. 5.—That rural districts pay too much into the state workmen's compensation fund, in proportion to the number of awards made to them, is the criticism contained in a report made public today, by State Auditor Tracy. The report covers an examination of records of fund, since its creation in 1913 to January 1 last, by State Examiners George W. Damon and Roy Kirk.

Recommendation is made by the examiners that payments into this fund by political sub-divisions be based upon actual hazards under which public employees in various districts work. The examiners object to the present plan which is based upon a percentage of the pay rolls of the political sub-divisions of the state.

The counties, as separate divisions are credited with a balance of $38,506 while the schools have $468,517 surplus which, the examiners said, increases because the amounts paid in greatly exceed the awards made. The examiners recommend that payments from the schools be stopped and the surplus placed out on interest, pointing out that the interest, totaling $23,000, would exceed by $8,000 the amount required each year for the school division, according to past averages.

Supporting their statement that cities are unjustly "carried" by the low hazard districts, the examiners stated that Cleveland paid in $183,948 and was awarded $416,448; Columbus paid in $61,178 and was awarded $129,290; Cincinnati paid in $63,778 and was awarded $95,299; Toledo paid in $36,948 and was awarded $62,599; Akron paid in $24,388 and was awarded $25,260; oungstown paid in $9,764 and was awarded $12,177.

Why Colds Lead to Pneumonia

When a cold is neglected it attacks the lining of the breathing passages and then may become pneumonia. Father John's Medicine treats colds and helps to prevent pneumonia because it nourishes the system and drives out poisonous waste matter—any other way of treating a cold is likely to lead to pneumonia. Not a "cough syrup" or "balm" depending upon dangerous and weakened drugs, but a food medicine and body builder.

JOHN MACADAM—PEACE TO HIS ASHES SAY MILLIONS OF PEOPLE.

To most people there is always a subject that touches them "where they live"—the condition of the roads. Of course this applies more particularly to those who live in the country, for they have to get to their market town so often to sell or buy, where as those of us who live in town may seldom have anything to do with the roads, and consequently don't care whether they are good or bad. But the country man or woman, when the roads are bad, feel almost isolated—cut off from the world—only as the rural mail carrier daily brings papers or letters—thanks to that best of all fellows, that paternal dear old Uncle Sam. Long may he live and his shadow never grow less.

The roads, yes the roads—forget about them as most country people may nine months in the year—every Spring they are a "live wire" that no man living on them can forget—gravel roads, in some cases seemingly bottomless roads, the mud half a foot deep. Oh, for the day when every one of those in Greene County will give place to macadamized pikes.

To macadamize a road is to cover it with small broken stone and on top of these add a covering of cement, to form a smooth hard surface. Named from John L. Macadam, a Scotch engineer, who died in 1836. On the death of his father in 1770 he came to America and was so good a loyalist that in 1783 he was compelled to abandon America.

He returned to Great Britain where he spent the balance of his life in traveling over the country advocating the adoption of his plan for bettering the roads, and with such great success that he was accorded a public benefactor. He was offered Knighthood which he refused; but a similar offer was accepted by his son, James, road master in London, who died in 1852.

Excuse so much about John Macadam, but the world is so much indebted to him for good roads that we thought it his due. Every main road out of Xenia is a macadam pike and as long as you keep on it how thankful you are, and when you leave it, in the spring of the year, words fail to express your disgust with the roads. Peace to the ashes of John Macadam.

STANFORD STICKS TO SILK HAT THAT ONCE SO STIRRED THE MOONSHINERS.

Now that Edward Terry Sanford is about to take his seat on the Supreme Court bench, there will be no question about his right to wear a silk hat that whenever he wants to, but there was a time in Judge Sanford's career in Tennessee when the right was questioned.

Some years ago there were so many moonshine cases at Cookeville, Tenn., that a separate Federal Court was established there to try the mountain "kangaroos" instead of hauling them to Knoxville or Nashville together with the hundreds of witnesses.

That being in Judge Sanford's circuit, it fell to his lot to take charge of the new court, the mountain coming to Mahomet.

When Judge Sanford arrived at the Cookeville Courthouse and before taking his seat on the elevated rostrum in front of the $4 pine table "bench" he failed to notice the scowls of his audience composed of moonshiners as he doffed his high silk hat, carefully rubbed its fur the right way with his handkerchief and set the headpiece behind his chair on the elevated platform.

While Judge Sanford was looking the other way one of the mountain cut-ups removed the "two-quart lid," scrubbed it the wrong way with a stiff wire brush and filled it full of water scooped from the nearest puddle and then replaced it at the Judge's back.

Judge Sanford returned to the hotel wearing a cheap wool hat, but there wasn't room in the Cookeville jail for all the moonshiners sentenced at that term of court.

IS IT HEROIC TO BE DISLOYAL?

Two sensational New York pulpites have recently gained additional notoriety by announcing that they do not believe in the fundamental doctrines of the organization from which their salaries are derived. Instead of getting out of these churches they propose to stay inside, inveigh against the regularly declared doctrines of these communions, and attain martyrdom, if possible, by heresy trials.

When any member of a church or a political party or any other organization having a doctrinal basis ceases to accept the fundamentals of its faith, there is just one honest and decent thing for him to do, and that is to quietly get out. There is plenty of room outside of any organization for the man who has ceased to believe in it. To wear the uniform of a country and try to wreck it, to wear the livery of a church and use the pulpit of the church to attack it, reveals a moral defect that is more important than any question of belief. The man who does this and heralds himself as a hero, is a very long way from being that.

Why does a man who does not believe in the underlying doctrines of the Protestant Episcopal church want to be an Episcopal rector? Why does a man who has ceased to hold to the cardinal tenets of the Baptist Church wish to continue to be a Baptist minister?

Fidelity is one of the finest traits in human character. The man who parades disloyalty as a virtue may gain the applause of the enemies of the institution with which he breaks faith, but in the eyes of people whose opinions are worth while he is not making a very pleasant spectacle of himself.

BETTER TIMES AND LESS UNEMPLOYMENT.

Despite the calamities predicted by the free traders should the Fordney-McCumber tariff be enacted into a law, there are recurring indications that business is improving, unemployment diminishing, and that the year 1923 will be a year of tremendous revival.

One of the benefits of the protective tariff whenever tried is the employment of wage-earners at good wages. This benefit was promised by the protectionists, and is in evidence now.

Industrial concerns in all parts of the United States report further increases in numbers of employees during November and December. Since October 1st, 1922, it is officially stated that 1,428 firms added over 97,000 to their force of employees. In the three months period ending November 1, 1923, these concerns increased their forces by 126,000.

Eastern industrial districts report a strong demand for many types of skilled labor and for common labor, whereas the agricultural districts report a growing demand for ordinary labor. The demand for common labor, it is said, exceeds the supply.

Already the leaven of protection is working.

Through the Dominion Government, Canada has established 20 experimental farms that have done valuable work in the science of agriculture.

THE COMPELLING POWER BACK OF THE RUHR MOVEMENT

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

Work has been commenced on the addition to the Xenia Cordage mill on the Cincinnati pike for which McCurran Brothers, have the contract. The building will be extended from the rear and the new addition will be a two story brick.

It is reported that in the early spring there will be one and probably two automobiles spinning along our streets.—Zimmerman News.

While it has been known that the overhead bridge on South Detroit Street, was in some manner defective and the workman hustled about the other day to make repairs the true facts regarding it were kept carefully concealed from the public. In some manner the discovery was made that the flange on the iron girder supporting the ties had a crack in it ten or twelve feet long. Had not this been discovered the result would have been something terrible as it would have resulted in one of the heavy engines going through the bridge onto Detroit Street, at a possible loss of life and property.

THE TEA-GOWN HABIT.

I know a woman who said that the greatest comfort she had in life was a tea-gown. She adored tea-gowns and pretty negligees and her clever fingers made up the most charming creations from old frocks and add lengths of bargain counter material. When her husband died and she was left with no insurance and only $50 in capital she invested the money in some attractive bits of silk lace and turned her living room into a tea-gown shop. She now has a very well paying business.

I am not writing this particularly to encourage you to go into business for yourself. Making tea-gowns or kimono requires a special gift. You are more restricted in style, therefore, more dependent upon exquisite workmanship and the effect of color and material. Slipshod work and mater-off and over the foundation, drape something that is sheer and shimmering. If they were originally of silk that has soiled, they can be freshened and the flaws hidden by a chiffon overdress. The easiest negligee to make the prettiest, I think, are those with straight classic lines, made of three and one-quarter yards of material sewed up the sides with a loosened line cut out. These drape divinely.

Patrick:—When the hands become as hardened as yours it is well to wear cosmetic gloves during the sleeping hours. I will be glad to mail you directions for making these if you are unable to purchase them.

A Friend: The best cure for nits is to saturate scalp and hair with kerosene and tie up in a towel overnight. Next day shampoo with hot water and soap and saturate again with vinegar. Go over the hair with a fine tooth comb dipped in vinegar and shampoo a second time.

Catharine B:—Constantly red hands often indicate nothing more serious than a slight disturbance of the circulation. Tight corsets or garters are frequently the cause.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using the well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma. Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

AUTO—SUGGESTION.

"Day after day, in every way, methinks I'm getting better." I spring this spiel at every meal, and it has cured my tetter. In olden times I wrote my rhymes in pain and bitter sorrow; though I took pills for many ills, no comfort could I borrow. All kinds of dope, with waning hope, I used to sadly swallow; if I knocked out the mumps or gout, some other ill would follow. And then I heard of one wise bird who cured men by suggestion; he'd heal man's aches in seven shakes, and never ask a question. I learned by heart his motto smart, that broke disease's fetter; "day after day, in every way, I'm surely getting better." My face was bare of waving hair, which kept the jokers jesting, but now my beard is wide and weird, and birds are in it nesting. With spavined knees I walked the leas, and limped up to my attic; now I prance and leap and dance, and pull stunts acrobatic. I'm full of pep, with buoyant step my errands I'm pursuing, while neighbors gaze in wild amaze, gadzooking and beshrewing. For well they know that long ago I was a wreck unsightly; and it is strange to note the change, to see me blithe and sprightly. If you are sick, oh, gentle hick, repeat this healing story: "Day after day, in every way, I'm growing hunkydory."

HELP YOURSELF

I know of no pleasure like unto that of helping someone else—unless it be that thrill that comes from helping one's self!

The problem that you solve all by yourself, in your own way, stays with you in inspirational power long after its solution.

As we grow in personal power, every great thing in the world takes on new cast of strength to us.

Every time you help yourself, you build yourself—for no human being stops growing except by his own will and wish.

If you are given body and a mind that aspires high, you have wealth that the richest are not able to buy.

With what you have, you can help yourself.

And everytime you help yourself, you help others—for we are each of us inspired and led on by the growing minds and spirits of others greater than ourselves.

Help yourself and you know not how far your star may mount.

Pay attention to the little, every day affairs that the average person passes by—or neglects when he does pay attention to them.

Be too proud to do anything that is not worthy of your best ability.

Keep your troubles to yourself—but share your good fortunes and successes with all.

Cultivate a cheerful frame of mind and keep the windows of your soul-house open and the shades up.

SEEKS DIVORCE FROM TWO LEGAL HUSBANDS

Norristown, Pa., Feb. 5.—For the first time in the history of the local courts a woman has started actions to be divorced from two legally wedded husbands. The woman who is asking the court to rid her of both of them is Mrs. Lillie Kocher, of this place.

According to the story which she told the court, she first married William Kocher, whose name she uses, in January, 1895. Eight years later, she says, he deserted her and that for the next six years she did not hear from him. Believing him dead, she then married George Gaston. In 1917 she received reliable information her former husband was living. She then separated from Gaston. Since that time they have not lived together. Now Mrs. Kocher wants to be legally freed of her marriage to both of them.

HOME CADETS SWAMP DAYTON TEAM 67 TO 2;

COURT TREAT IN STORE FOR FANS TUESDAY NIGHT

CAESARCREEK HIGH WINS CLOSE CONTEST

Home Overwhelms Visitors

The O. S. & S. O. Home Cadets easily defeated the Dayton Wolverines Saturday at the Armory hall by a 67 to 2 score. The game was fair but the visitors did not have much when it came to offense. If they could have made baskets as well as they passed the ball the game might have been interesting.

It was quite a while before the Cadets got going. To be exact it was three minutes before Turney started things by looping one through from the center of the floor. Nolan then came through with one from underneath the basket. Caldwell and Brewster followed with long shots in rapid succession. The visitors got their only score of the game right at this moment when Lehman looped one through from midfloor. Nolan and Turney then came through with baskets and from this time on the locals kept hitting the net with much regularity. The first half ended with the score 28 to 2.

The locals really displayed some mean basketball in the second half. Their defense was also tight and the visitors did not get a single score. The passwork and basketshooting of Coach Sheet's gang was the only feature.

BIG COURT CARD ON TAP.

By Wones.

Fans who journey to the new high school gym Tuesday night will be furnished with three interesting games. The first contest will bring together the Famous Five and the Merchants. Both of these teams have been traveling at a fast clip. The Merchants are leaders in the league and so far have not lost a single game, while on the other hand the Famous have been strengthened by Bud Pratt, Monk Day and several other stars. The Famous showed that they have the stuff last Tuesday night when they handled the L. E. John Emeralds a drubbing. These two teams are just about evenly matched and will no doubt put up a great battle.

In the second game of the evening the Presto-Lites and the Ohio Bells teams from Dayton will tangle. Both these teams are in the Girls Industrial league at Dayton and on last Friday night the Presto-Lites defeated the Bells in a spirited contest, when the final whistle blew the Bells trailing by two points. It took an overtime period to decide the contest. This should be another good game. The Bells will present their same lineup with Semedey and Shade at the forwards, Wagner at the tip off position and Reeves and Pabst at the guards while the Presto-Lites will use Wilkins and Russell at the forwards, Baker at center and Elliott and Hansen at the guards. Harry Soliman who plays with the Famous Autos, coaches the Presto-Lites.

In the main game of the evening the Famous Autos will take on the N. C. R. Tigers. In stacking up against this team the locals will just have there hands full as the Gem City combination have a powerful team. The N. C. R. bunch have been holding down a front position in one of the leagues all this season and their opponents have found them a stumbling block.

The locals will use Barlow and Mark at the forward positions while Solimano or Koester will jump center and Solowitz and Kohely will look after the guarding. The lineup of the N. C. R. five is not known but the two Clayton brothers will be with the team. The first game will get under way at 7 P. M. sharp with L. Rachford handling the whistle.

FATE OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE RESTS ON TUESDAY MEETING

The fate of the Xenia Chamber of Commerce will be decided at the meeting to be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the organization rooms. President Karl Bloom said Monday.

"It is a case of thumbs up or thumbs down for the organization and the matter will be decided by the number of thumbs that are present for counting Tuesday evening," said Mr. Bloom.

Directors are hoping to have a large representation of the membership present or an open discussion of the problems of the Chamber of Commerce. If the attendance does not indicate sufficient interest in its affairs steps will be taken to dissolve the organization.

WOMEN DON'T LIKE OFFICER'S FACE SO THEY WANT HIM FIRED

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 5.—If you don't like his face, fire him!

Mrs. W. T. Graham, vice-president of the Nebraska W. C. T. U., "doesn't like the face of U. S. Rohrer," Federal prohibition director for this district. She said so right out in meeting. Then the W. C. T. U. passed a resolution asking Governor Chas. W. Bryan to "fire" his new State Sheriff, Tom Carroll.

No objection was set forth by the women to Carroll's face. But the new sheriff has been one of Rohrer's best little "rum hounds."

Sheriffs of every county in Nebraska, in annual session at the same time the W. C. T. U. was meeting, put a unanimous O. K. on Carroll and sent a resolution of congratulations to Governor Bryan on his choice of a law enforcement officer.

Bryan decided he wouldn't be justified in dropping a perfectly sound and well-trained sheriff merely because he had worked for an officer who admits he isn't a "ladies man."

Rohrer says he isn't offended by the observations of Mrs. Graham.

"I have realized for some time," he said, "that I am no Apollo. In fact, I don't like my own face. But I have put up with it in close association much longer than has Mrs. Graham, and I'm still fairly robust. "If anyone has a handsome young face to swap I'm open to proposals."

DISTRICT HOSPITAL
NOW IN GOOD SHAPE

An era of better things for the District Tuberculosis Hospital at Springfield is at hand, through the co-operation of the citizens who appreciate the value of the institution to the community it serves, is the opinion of Dr. C. E. M. Finney, superintendent of the institution.

New nurses have been engaged to take the places of three who resigned during the last 10 days. Stoves have been procured for the institution through the donation of a Springfield citizen, and through gifts promised the hospital, it is planned to install an electric call bell system, according to Dr. Finney.

COW EMULATED GOAT
IN SELECTING GRUB

Kendallville, Ind., Feb. 5.—George Dull, residing near here, is wondering what relation his cow was to the goat family.

The animal was noted for giving a large quantity of rich milk and had a wonderful "constitution". Recently the cow became sick and refused to eat, although she previously had had a big "appetite" and unusual digestive organs. Finally she refused to give milk and died a few days after.

Dull called a veterinarian, who performed a post mortem. In the cow's stomach were found four pieces of baling wire, a varied assortment of small nails and tacks and other iron articles. One piece of baling wire protruded through the stomach. The contents of the stomach worked through the channel made into the lung by the wire and the sack in the lung continued to expand until it entirely supplanted the lung. The contents of the stomach filled a twelve quart pail and weighed 25 pounds.

Whatever fanciful variations may govern the silhouette of ordinary frocks, sport clothes still hold to the straight and narrow.

This season the smart young woman costumes herself in heavy fibre silk for sport events, of which a typical sal interpretation is illustrated in the three-piece model sketched today. The blending of colors is skillful. Egyptian blue with henna is interwoven in a background of deep cream, and the sleeveless jacket is edged with solid henna.

MRS. JENNIE PINNEY,
COLUMBUS, OHIO.
Bothered With Stomach Trouble for a Long Time. Ka-di-ok Quickly Relieved Her, She Says.

Mrs. Jennie Pinney, who resides at 174 1/2 East Main Street, says: "I had a bad case of stomach trouble which lasted a considerable time. I had very little relish for food, but everything I did eat disagreed with me and failed to digest. Gas formed on my stomach, causing distressing pains and headaches. I began to think I had chronic indigestion, as I was unable to obtain any relief to overcome this condition. I became very nervous and felt worn out and tired all the time. My sleep failed to bring me any rest. I was depressed and despondent, and as time went by I despaired of getting better. I was induced finally to try Ka-di-ok, but having doctor myself for months, I had little faith that it would help me. I am thankful to say that Ka-di-ok has done me a world of good. I now eat everything I like without any further trouble from indigestion. I have taken quite a few bottles of Ka-di-ok and my health today is as good as ever it was. I always keep a bottle on hand and take an occasional dose whenever I think I need it."

Ka-di-ok can be obtained at Sayre & Hemphill's Drug Store, Xenia.

A loss of wealth can often bring

A captivating sweater is the one worn by the accompanying figure. The simple white with red border and monogram or emblem is refreshing after the recent deluge of Navajo sweaters. Incidentally, for the plump figure, this style the snug band, which permits slight blousing, is more becoming than the straight models.

Broil these ham pieces lightly on both sides, then arrange them in a baking dish so that they cover the bottom. Spread three cups of raw, sliced sweet potatoes over them, sprinkle with two tablespoons of sugar, add one-cup of hot water and one tablespoon of either melted butter or ham drippings, then cover the dish and bake slowly till the ham is tender (basting the sweet potatoes occasionally with the gravy). Serve well browned on top.

CHAPTERS From A Woman's Life

BY JANE PHELPS

TRUST AND FAITH MEAN HAPPINESS

CHAPTER 96

Mrs. Page seemed glad to see me too was kind in her inquiries after my people. But it seemed my happiness was too great to bear when she said:

"I think now that Jack is getting such a big boy, and I live with you, that I should like to have you call me 'mother,' Doreen. I have missed you, my daughter."

"Oh, may I? I have always wanted to!" I exclaimed.

That night I laid awake trying to realize the wonderful happiness that was mine.

How could I ever have thought I could give it up?

And Walter loved me! Cared nothing for anyone else. Some day I would perhaps tell him I had overheard what Vashli Vernon had said, that I had overheard it, and ask him what she meant, but not until a long time had passed; and never again would I doubt my husband's love. I knew, only too well, that he would often distress me.

With his nature that was inevitable but never again would I let anything make me lose faith in him.

We had both been excited and I had not noticed how worn and tired my husband looked until the morning. Then I spoke of it.

"I guess it's partly because I missed you so, but before you left I felt rather rotten. I wanted Vashli to sit for another picture and she refused. Told me we were neither strong enough to go on without a rest. But I'll be all right now you are back." He took me in his arms and kissed me. While I—

So that was what Miss Vernon meant when she said they were neither of them strong enough. How every thing was being cleared up, all my doubts and fears dispelled. How unnecessarily I had suffered.

"You and Walter take a run down to Atlantic City over the week end," Mrs. Page said at breakfast. "Walter looks seedy. He missed you terribly. Doreen, although I did my best to fill your place; but I imagine we are too much alike in disposition to be restful for each other. It will be my treat and don't stint yourselves in any way."

"Just the thing Mater! What do you say, dear?"

"I should love it!" I replied, wondering if my heart would not break with happiness as I had believed it would with sorrow.

"When we came back, Doreen," Walter said in his boyish way, I guess you'd better join that Civic Purity League. I've been going to the meetings with the Mater and she converted."

How like him! He would stop at nothing while in his present mood to please me, and later when he was in another frame of mind, I would remember and not fret. I would remember he was an artist that he could not be judged as other men are judged in many ways, that his enthusiasms his love of beauty, his peculiar temperament, his inconsequential boyishness,—that I had thought strong enough to enable me to give up so he could be happy—was strong enough to make allowance now that I was sure of his love.

I wrote mother from Atlantic City. I told her the trouble I had spoken of had been all adjusted, that Mrs. Page had asked me to call her mother, and that I was the happiest girl in the world. My letter must have read like a peace of thankfulness for when she replied she said:

"I was sure my dear that God would help you; that everything would come out all right. Trust Him always, dear."

As I look back at the years that have passed, chapters in my life, that seemed so filled with vital interest to me, I wonder if after all they are so different, save in incident, from what happens in the life of other women?

We marry, full of youth, hope, and a self-centered idea that the world was made for our happiness.

We find thorns instead of flowers, we experienced disappointments, and we have neither the faith or the selfishness to surmount them; to know that happiness consists in service, not in demands. That love means faith and trust, not doubts.

Then comes the time when realizing all these things we adjust ourselves and start another, fuller life, unselfish, trusting, that makes for a purer, happiness; a fuller life for ourselves and for those we love.

And if the retelling of my useless suffering in those early years of my married life help even one woman to a greater faith and trust, I shall not feel I have transcribed these chapters in my own life in vain.

THE END.

Clouds Of War Over Near East

WAR IMMINENT AS TURKS TURN DOWN TREATY

Greece and Turkey Renew
War Plans and Are Moving Troops

BRITISH PREPARED

Law May Make Further
Concessions to Turks to
Avert Hostilities

London, Feb. 5.—Menacing clouds of war were hanging low over the Near East today as a result of the collapse of the Lausanne peace conference through refusal of the Turks to sign the treaty. Advisers from Athens and Constantinople said that both Greece and Turkey have renewed war preparations and are moving troops.

Great Britain is prepared for any eventuality in the Near East. If the Turks carry out their threat to resume hostilities the British are prepared for it with a great fleet and a big army massed in Turkish ports.

The general impression is that Great Britain will sit tight for the time being, awaiting future developments. No move will be made in any direction until after the return of Lord Curzon from Lausanne and the reconvening of parliament next week.

Although some of the newspapers say that an outbreak of war is possible at once, belief is growing that Premier Bonar Law and his close advisers will make further concessions to the Turks rather than risk British participation in Near East hostilities.

Despite the fact that it would likely lead to downfall of the present government, it is probable that Premier Law will withdraw the British troops from Constantinople and Mosul, rather than incur war.

Military experts declare that while the British military position at Constantinople is not entirely secure, the British could hold Chanaq against assaults by the whole Turkish army.

Heavily Garrisoned

Since their occupation of Chanaq (on the narrows of the Dardanelles) the British have transferred the garrison into a second Gibraltar. The garrison is supported by heavy long range guns and a gigantic fleet anchored in the Dardanelles behind the land forces.

The breakdown of the Lausanne conference throws further strain upon the Anglo-French entente, as indications are growing that France is preparing to make a separate treaty with Turkey.

The only optimistic report from Lausanne was a dispatch saying that Ismet Pasha may yet sign the treaty. This was followed by advice saying that Ismet had departed for Angora, accompanied by his colleagues.

Greeks Are On Guard

Athens, Feb. 5.—Greek army commanders in western Thrace were ordered today to be on their guard against Turkish attacks, now that the Lausanne peace conference has been ruptured.

Greece has approximately 70,000 soldiers massed in Thrace against about 15,000 Turks.

Greek officials declared that if hostilities are resumed the Turks must make the first war like move.

Turkish forces in Thrace are constantly being reinforced. Military technicians from Russia and artillery from Odessa are being landed at Black sea ports in large numbers.

Belief exists in some quarters that Turkey is making a huge bluff and does not intend to reopen the war unless a conflict begins in central Europe. In such an event the Turks would take advantage of the general turbulence throughout Europe to renew hostilities.

Aviators Will Attempt Another Endurance Test

Dayton, O., Feb. 5.—Lieutenants John A. Macready and Oakley G. Kelly of McCook Field will hop off tomorrow from Wilbur Wright Field, in an effort to hang up a mark for all other aviators in the world to shoot at.

They will use the army transport, T-2, in which they made an unofficial record of little more than 35 hours at San Diego, Cal., last fall.

Legislators Make Plans To Finish Work In March

Cole Bill, Said to Be Sponsored by Ku Klux Klan Will Be Voted On By Senate This Week—Work On Budget Also to Start This Week.

Columbus, Feb. 5.—With a view to winding up the work of the state legislature in March, if possible, and to pass only a few new laws, legislative leaders this week are expected to exert material influence through the joint sitting committee, representing both senate and house.

Work on the state budget for the next two years is scheduled to be started this week by the house finance committee which has practically finished its visits to state institutions. Governor Doherty may be asked by the committee to have state budget superintendent Bronneman sit with the committee during consideration of the different items making up the budget.

A report is expected to be made this week to the legislature by the special joint committee which went to Pennsylvania and Maryland last week to study the operation of gasoline tax laws.

Some time this week, the senate is expected to vote on the question of passing the coal bill which requires county auditors to publish lists of tax exempt property in each county. The bill passed the house. Among the measures up for passage in the house this week is the Harding bill requiring secret societies to file lists of their officers and various meeting places with the secretary of state and to keep a roster of members at meeting places open for public inspection. The bill is credited with being aimed at the Ku Klux Klan.

HARDING WILL TRAVEL DURING SUMMER RECESS

President Expects to Visit
Alaska and Pacific Coast
On Vacation

HAS BEEN VERY BUSY

Western Politicians Say
President Should Visit
Coast for Good Party

Washington, Feb. 5.—With Congress packing its trunks for a long summer vacation—the first in eight years—President Harding is planning to spend a good part of the approaching summer swinging around some of the circuits he neglected during the campaign of 1920, and which he has been too occupied to undertake since his entry into the White House two years ago.

Mr. Harding has not been what is known as "a travelling president." Aside from a couple of vacation trips to Florida and week end jaunts not far from Washington, Mr. Harding has done little travelling since he became president. He probably has delivered fewer speeches away from Washington than any chief executive in recent years.

The president's friends explain this on the ground that few presidents have been so engrossed with public work as has Mr. Harding. He has had congress on his hands almost continuously since he was inaugurated, which fact coupled with the multiplicity of foreign complications that have beset the administration has combined to keep the president's nose fairly close to the grindstone for two years.

Barring unforeseen complications in the foreign situation this summer will see Mr. Harding on the Pacific coast, according to tentative plans now being formulated. The president has not fully decided whether to undertake the Alaskan trip this summer, but is favorably impressed with the idea, and if possible he will go, including in the journey a swing through the west.

There are some political arguments of no small weight being brought to bear on the White House in favor of some western travelling. It has been pointed out that most of the so-called "unrest" in the country originated through the great grain and livestock belt that lies west of the Mississippi as exemplified in the election of such "progressive" senators as Shipstead of Minnesota and Frazier of North Dakota, and Wheeler of Montana, last November, and the Republican party prophets believe that a presidential journey through the west would do much "for the good of the order," as one administration leader expressed it.

From it the observers will have a clear and unobstructed view of the ship day and night. In addition to carrying lights on her wing tips the T-2 will be in the focus of searchlights at the field during the hours in the air at night.

All precautions are being taken to make this record stand regardless of any disputes from the French or any other aerial sector.

The big plane was thoroughly tested today and when she goes to bed tonight her tanks will carry enough gas to insure a flight of 44 hours.

This is the goal aimed at if the men and machine hold out.

A hanging couch has been installed in the fuselage of the ship so one pilot may relax and sleep while the other is at the wheel.

The pilots will wear electrically warmed clothing. Their bill of fare will include hot coffee, sandwiches and chocolate during the trip.

TORPEDO RUM SHIPS AND ARM SEABOARD TO FOIL SMUGGLERS

Washington, Feb. 5.—Put United States destroyers off eastern coast to torpedo the rum smugglers and arm the seaboard with 16 inch rifles that will drive the whisky fleet 30 miles out—then America will be in a measure safe for prohibition.

That's the way the board of temperance of the Methodist Episcopal church would solve liquor smuggling. William J. Bryan, endorsed the recommendation of the temperance board today and added that foreign ships with liquor on board should not be permitted to enter our harbors under any circumstances.

The temperance board said that the three mile limit, outside of which the liquor ships now await opportunity to transport their wares ashore, should be extended as far as the heaviest artillery can shoot.

Operations of the rum runners were described as impudent warfare against the government. The only solution is use of the navy to capture or sink whisky ships the temperance board said.

Legislation demanded by the board to curb violation of prohibition and narcotic laws included deportation of aliens convicted of violation; a law to make purchaser of liquor criminally liable with the seller; further restricted immigration; United States to lead in international control of narcotics; public officials to conform their habits to the prohibition law.

LIMA MARDI GRAS FESTIVITIES BEGIN

Lima Feb. 5.—Lima's first annual pageant of progress and Mardi gras opened at noon today. The week of merrymaking, replete with stirring and extraordinary feats, was ushered in a blaze of glory when King Rex I, monarch of the kingdom of joy, entered the city. Surrounded by the knights of his court and a mighty cavalcade of splendor, the festival ruler took possession of the city.

At Market and McDonald Street the monarch exchange salutations with the queen of the kingdom of joy received the keys of the city from Mayor Cunningham.

A formal opening of the doors of the tabernacle, where numerous features will be shown during the week, took place at 1 P. M., followed by formal presentation of the allegorical beauty parade and fashion review on the stage and board walk.

Thousands of pleasure seekers will join in a grand open air ball as the stupendous production is brought to a close Saturday.

URGES CHURCHES TO ADVERTISE

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Every church should set aside money to be used for newspaper advertising. Rev. J. T. Brabner, of the committee on conservation and advance of the Methodist Episcopal church, said in an address here yesterday.

"The church can send its message in the papers to non-church readers and to those of its members detained at the home because of sickness, business and other causes," he said.

"The preacher speaks to hundreds, while the newspapers speak to thousands and millions."

"Church members should assist, editors, but criticism of editors and editorial policies of news is harmful. The pulpit and press should pull together and not apart."

TRACE LIQUOR LEAK TO CUBAN LEGATION

This is the Cuban Legation in Washington, where a big "liquor leak" is reported to have been unearthed by "dry" enforcement officials. It is alleged Washington bootleggers have reaped immense profits from the sale of liquors obtained from servants there. The Legation, as in the case of all foreign legations, is considered foreign territory and can import as much liquor as it wishes. The Cuban Charge d'Affaires has called at the State Department in connection with the charge.

DEAN D. WESLAR, OSBORN GARAGE OWNER SUICIDES EARLY SUNDAY

Dies After Shooting Self in Head with Revolver—Despondency Believed Cause—Had Served With Army in France.

Despondent over ill health, Dean D. Weslar, 25, garage owner of Osborn, and World War Veteran, shot and killed himself at his home in Old Osborn, Sunday morning about ten o'clock. The young man's act was a shock to relatives and friends, who had not noticed his condition although acquainted with his poor health.

Weslar, with his father-in-law, who was visiting at his home, had gone to his garage early Sunday morning, and had returned to his home, about ten o'clock, Weslar said that he was going to the basement to attend to the furnace, and a short time later the shot was heard. He was found with a bullet wound in his head, a .38 revolver lying by his side. He lived for about fifty minutes after found.

Weslar, with his wife, and small child, resided in Osborn, on the old site, the village formerly occupied. He was well liked throughout the community, friends being unacquainted with any condition, with the exception of ill health, that would cause him to take his life. His brother is a patient at the tuberculosis hospital at Cincinnati, and it is thought that he feared he also would contract the disease, since he had suffered from ill health for several months, since being discharged from the army. He served overseas. He was born at New Paris, Ohio, and is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters.

Dr. R. L. Haines of Paintersville, county coroner, was called to view the body Sunday afternoon and said that death was due to despondency resulting from ill health.

START SURVEY OF DAMAGE TOLL TAKEN BY BIG TIDAL WAVE

Honolulu, Feb. 5.—A survey started today was expected to reveal the full extent of the damage caused to the Hawaiian island group by the five tidal waves which Saturday dealt death and destruction.

Property loss is expected to exceed $2,500,000. Loss of life is believed to have been confined to Hilo, where twelve are thought to have lost their lives although a definite check has not been completed.

All of the dead were Japanese and included one child washed from a sampan which was caught on the crest of the first huge wave.

The island of Maui was hardest hit, according to reports reaching here by the tidal waves. Damages to the city and harbor of Kahului was estimated today at $1,000,000, and damage to the island at $1,500,000.

Complete reports were lacking early today from all of the islands due to the fact that the mutual inter island radio does not operate on Sunday.

Fears for the safety of Gov. W. R. Farrington and a party of friends were allayed last night when they returned from a week end fishing trip safely.

The maximum height of the tidal waves was apparently fifteen feet reported by the island of Kahului. Some reports reported the first of the series of waves most violent while others said the second reached the greatest height.

Shipping losses were comparatively small.

ONE KILLED AND 5 HURT IN JOY RIDE

Marion, Feb. 5.—George Vale, 2176 East Fifty Street, Cleveland, was instantly killed; Charles Gettes, stop 17, Mayfield road, South Euclid, was seriously hurt and Bert Cheney, Delaware, had his skull broken when their auto turned turtle south of Marion early today. Cheney is not expected to live. Three other Delaware men were injured but not seriously.

They are Arthur Roberts, Sidney Pigeon and Clifford Rere. Rere was driving. According to the police the occupants of the automobile were on a joy riding hootch party.

TO PERMIT SALE OF LIQUOR

Moscow, Feb. 5.—As an economic measure the council of commissioners has decided to permit the manufacture and sale of liquors containing up to 20 per cent alcohol. Exclusive rights to manufacture liquor will be vested in the state vodka factories.

HARDING'S SISTER SAILS

New York, Feb. 5.—Miss Abigail Harding and Mrs. H. H. Votaw, sisters of President Harding, sailed for Buenos Ayres on the steamer Pan American. They plan to stop off at Rio de Janeiro on their way home to visit the exposition.

NEW NEAR EAST PEACE CONFERENCE IS PLANNED

Turks Have Not Been Officially Notified That Lausanne Conference is Ended—Russians Elated Over Failure of Meeting.

Lausanne Feb. 5.—Efforts may be made immediately to convene another Near East peace conference to avert resumption of war in the near east, it was reported here today. When the French delegation, headed by M. Bompard, departed for Paris, it was announced that no official notification had been served upon Ismet Pasha head of the Turkish envoys, that the Lausanne conference was at an end.

M. Bompard refused to discuss the possibility of a separate treaty between France and Turkey. The situation here was one of confusion. The Turks claimed that the conference was not yet officially adjourned because they had not been notified it was at an end.

Marquis Di Geroni, head of the Italian delegation will remain until tomorrow. He intimated Italy may attempt to bring about renewal of peace negotiations to prevent an outbreak of hostilities.

The American observers are still working desperately to save the situation. Richard Washburn Child, head of the American delegation, Joseph C. Grew and Admiral Mark Bristol, U. S. N., conferred until late in the night with Ismet Pasha.

M. Massigli, French secretary general said he would remain in Lausanne so long as there is an opportunity for a renewal of peace negotiations.

Eleutherios Venizelos, and his Greek colleagues were plainly angry over the numerous concessions made to the Turks by the allies. They said Greece was ready for renewal of the war, but was loath to undertake hostilities without pledges of outside support.

M. Tchitcherine and other members of the Russian delegation were elated over the collapse of the conference. It was evident that they took credit for the first stand of the Turks against allied terms. Russia has offered her support to Turkey and has offered to make a separate treaty with Angora.

The next move in the near east

DUNGEONS AT BOYS' INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL ORDERED ABANDONED

Columbus, Feb. 5.—Welfare Director Harper has ordered Captain C. E. Rowe, superintendent of the Boys' Industrial school, to discontinue use of dungeon cells recently established as a means of disciplining unruly boys.

Harper in a letter to Rowe says cells in the school are in a building reached only through two padlocked doors and two rooms. "I shudder to think what would happen," Harper says, "if this building should catch fire." He charges that these cells are not furnished with beds, nor even benches, and are only a few feet in dimensions, so boys neither can sit down nor lie down without sitting or lying on the floor.

Captain R. U. Hastings, former superintendent of the school, was dismissed several months ago for alleged mistreatment of wards.

FORMER SING SING WARDEN TO SPEAK

Cleveland, Feb. 5.—Prison conditions in Ohio will be discussed at a conference at Oberlin Feb. 15 to 17, and purposes of which were outlined here by Professor Herbert A. Miller of Oberlin college. Eleven experts, including Thomas Mott Osborne, former warden of Sing Sing prison, are among the scheduled speakers.

"The purpose of the conference is to make effective through intelligent and public opinion the administration of our penal system, which because of prevailing popular ignorance and lack of interest has failed to keep pace with the best thought and practice, and often has retarded, rather than promoted, the ends of justice," Professor Miller said in a statement. "We have no axes to grind nor beads to count, nor have we any pet theory to advocate."

Washington, Feb. 5.—Proposing governmental control of wheat prices, Senator Gooding, Republican of Idaho, this afternoon introduced a bill in the senate to create a $300,000,000 federal "wheat stabilization corporation" for the establishment of "fair returns to American farmers."

Gooding proposes a basic price of $1.75 a bushel for number 1 northern spring wheat. The corporation would be controlled by the secretary of agriculture and two directors to be named by the president.

The measure also would provide a practical wheat embargo for three years, permitting only minor importations until July 1, 1926. The corporation would be authorized to make its purchases in the open market for cash and the bill was drawn so that these purchases could be used to stabilize the price of wheat throughout the entire country.

McADOO CALLED ON MORSE TRIAL

Washington, Feb. 5.—William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, and other prominent officials of the war time government, will be called to testify in defense of Charles W. Morse, indicted ship builder, when trial of the first of the so-called "war frauds" cases is begun here tomorrow.

Attorneys for Morse and his co-defendants among them his three sons, said today, the charges against Morse would be shaken by the testimony of an imposing array of desistence witnesses. Morse and his co-defendants in the organization of the Virginia ship building corporation are alleged to have defrauded the government out of approximately $10,000,000 in ship construction during the war. The indictment charges them with converting to their own use much government material, and with the sale of other material, and converting the proceeds to their personal use. The indictment, returned a year ago, charges thirty "overt acts."

INVADERS KILL MANY GERMANS AT INGELHEIM

Reports of Horrors Committed by French Soldiers Given Out

LITTLE GIRL KILLED

Russia Said To Be Preparing to help Germany
In Spring

Berlin, Feb. 5.—No official confirmation had been received here up to noon today of the report from Mayence that nine Germans were killed by French soldiers during rioting at Ingelheim. According to the report a German mob attacked the French after a train, manned by French railroaders was detained at Ingelheim.

Intense indignation has been aroused by news from Essen, that a little German school girl was killed by a French corporal near the Dusseldorf railway station. The Germans claim that the French fired upon a group of school children wounding one, in addition to the child killed. The French commandant informed the mayor of the town that the shooting was accidental and that the corporal would be court martialled.

In the middle Rhineland district the French have extended their occupation to include Kehl, Offenburg and Appenwer.

Reports of German casualties at the hands of the French have been arriving in a steady stream.

A street railway conductor at Oberhausen was shot dead.

A German civilian was reported to have been killed by a French sentry at Broeckten.

At Essen the French fired machine guns over the heads of a crowd of German communists.

Russian students at Petrograd carried out an anti-French demonstration and called upon French workers to resist France's military policy.

A sensational and unconfirmed report originated at Helsingfors, that Russia is preparing for war in the spring on the pretext that France and her allies are preparing for the dismemberment of Germany.

According to advices from Salsburg, C. echo-Slovakia is recalling citizens of military age from Austria giving rise to belief that Czechoslovakia in agreement with France, will make a hostile demonstration against Bavaria.

SENATOR CANNON UNABLE TO SPEAK BUT PULPIT FILLED

Confined to his bed in Pittsburgh, Pa., with an attack of grip, Ex-Senator Frank Cannon, former U. S. Senator from Utah, was unable to fill his speaking engagement at the Second United Presbyterian Church, this city Sunday morning.

Mr. Cannon's failure to come to this city, was only the third time during his career on the public speaking platform, that he was forced to abandon an engagement. Word received from the National Reform Bureau, under whose auspices Mr. Cannon was being sent to this city, said that, providing his health permitted, he would be sent to this city by the Bureau in about two weeks to fill the appointment.

Dr. James S. Martin, of Pittsburgh was sent to this city to take Mr. Cannon's place, appearing for two addresses at 9:30 and 10:30 o'clock at the church auditorium. The grip epidemic made large inroads into the attendance at both addresses, only a fairly good-sized audience attending both meetings.

"Mormonism" was the subject of Dr. Martin's first address, his statements on this nation question including, "The political propaganda being conducted by Mormonism, is at its root really inconsistent with patriotism. The book of Mormon discipline and government is impure in trend, and the promises given by the State of Utah, at its entrance into the Union have not been kept, either in connection with polygamy or kindred evils." Dr. Martin appeared for his second address on "Good Citizenship" at 10:30 o'clock. He took the thought that unless governments are founded on Christianity, no matter how good citizens they have, the central government is liable to become erratic, and that the history of different nations, today, is a living testimony to the fact that no nation is safe that does not recognize Christ."

Dr. Martin went to Dayton, Sunday evening, where he filled Ex-Senator Cannon's engagement.

Journeys Through Southern Ireland

By DANIEL O'CONNELL

International News Service Staff Correspondent

Dublin, Feb. 5.—How is the South of Ireland faring after the terror of the last eight months? Badly, I'm afraid. Unemployment, demoralization and robbery are prevalent in many places and, although the Free State Government is gradually bringing conditions under control, the process is slow and tedious.

I have just returned from a trip to Killybeg, the famous Irish tourist resort. Traveling to Killybeg from Dublin under prevailing conditions is not altogether ideal. There are risks and fears every mile of the long, rocky road.

How incongruous it seems in all the wonderful beauty of Killybeg to think and speak of death! One can scarcely conceive such a possibility. To be there to know, to see, to hear the stories that are told of the hardships the people have to endure, of the many conflicts, of the coming of death—it all seems like bringing a terrible hell into a delightful heaven. And yet it is the bad, naked truth.

Killybeg, the beautiful, the "Eden of the West," the blessed and pampered pet of nature, has suffered from her agony, fear and dread.

This journey in the south I will try to divide into three stages—the three stages which are necessary to complete the journey—namely Limerick, Tralee and Killybeg. Speaking in broad terms, the situation in Limerick is somewhat improved. There is nothing, however, in the nature of general normality. A big crop of weeds, which will require a good deal of time and trouble to remove is indicative of general conditions.

Six months ago, when I was in Limerick, the fighting by the Free State soldiers was in full swing outside the city. Now it is like visiting a new country. The war on the roads by the Republicans had not become very acute then, yet it was impossible to get into Limerick by rail. The nearest I could get was Nenagh, and from there I was compelled to get a push bicycle and had to work around through Clare into Limerick. No automobile could get through, as

Editor's Note—Following is the first of a series of three articles by Daniel O'Connell, Dublin correspondent of the International News Service, who has just completed a journey through the southern part of Ireland. In the appended article the first stage of the journey (the trip to Limerick) is described.

The roads had been trenched and mined.

The journey is still slow and long, and in many places the engineer has to slow down his engine and crawl over temporarily repaired breaches, but the trip can be made by rail.

When I started out from Dublin recently I set myself the task of counting the number of broken bridges and the number of signal cabins and railroad buildings which have been burned. Before I got to Limerick I realized the futility of the job and threw it up in despair. What I should have done was to count the number that had not been destroyed.

There is scarcely a bridge or a railroad depot between Limerick and Dublin that has not been damaged. The total cost of the property destroyed is estimated at $6,000,000 or more. Every quarter of a mile is guarded by a little group of Free State soldiers. It was cold and miserable.

Showers of sleet, snow and rain, accompanied by a biting blast, made one shiver, and yet along the railroad, living in dugouts and in improvised shelters of every kind, were the troops of the Free State. In one place they were stationed under a rudely constructed hut beneath which swirled the waters of a swollen stream. At all the stations guards are mounted day and night, and it is solely due to their presence that travel is possible at all.

Limerick city, however, is nearly normal so far as business is concerned. I had scarcely left the train when I ran into a scene of bustling commercial activity reminiscent of the days of peace. Last July it had been almost impossible to obtain a room in a hotel, as most of the hotels were closed. Now they are open and eager to accommodate the traveler. Business is beginning to boom. The courts are open and the Free State troops and the Civic Guard are maintaining condition which, in contrast to those of seven months ago, might truthfully be described as peaceful.

HARDING TO URGE PLAN FOR FUNDING DEBT BE ACCEPTED

Washington, Feb. 5.—The plan for funding Great Britain's war-time debt to the United States was turned over to President Harding by the debt funding commission. Accompanying the plan was a statement by the commission suggesting methods of congressional action translating the results of the commission's negotiations into law.

New rumblings of opposition to the plan were heard in both the house and the senate. At the same time Senator Lodge, the Republican leader in the senate, visited the white house to discuss the situation with President Harding, and Representative Mondell of Wyoming, the house Republican leader, conferred with Representative Burton of Ohio, a member of the funding commission, as to ways and means of handling the settlement legislation in the house.

Increasing evidence developed that the house Democrats planned to oppose the interest rates contained in the settlement plan, on the grounds that they constituted a discrimination. Several of them declared that the rates proposed to be applied on the British debt were materially lower than the United States pays on its own obligations.

It is announced here that the president will submit the British debt settlement agreement to congress, probably tomorrow. While he has not yet made a definite decision, the expectation is that he will make the presentation in person to a joint session of the house and senate in the house chamber.

Members of the American debt commission said that the exact form of the legislation which congress would be asked to pass remained to be determined. However, it will take one of two forms, a general amendment of the existing statute or a formal approval of the British agreement only.

While anticipating opposition in both the house and senate, administration officials and Republican congressional leaders appeared confident of favorable action by congress before the expiration of the present session on March 4. Debate is expected to develop many details of the negotiations between the British and American commissions which have been withheld thus far.

The first step in the legislative program in congress will be a reference of the subject to the house ways and means committee. Prompt action is forecast in that committee with a report to the house probably by the end of this week or early next week. Under the general rules, house action will be prompt and the whole matter may be ready for the senate within 10 days after the president submits the agreement.

RURAL DISTRICTS PAY TOO MUCH INTO COMPENSATION FUND

Columbus, Feb. 5.—That rural districts pay too much into the state workmen's compensation fund, in proportion to the number of awards made to them, is the criticism contained in a report made public today, by State Auditor Tracy. The report covers an examination of records of fund, since its creation in 1913 to January 1 last, by State Examiners George W. Damon and Roy Kirk.

Recommendation is made by the examiners that payments into this fund by political sub-divisions be based upon actual hazards under which public employees in various districts work. The examiners object to the present plan which is based upon a percentage of the pay rolls of the political sub-divisions of the state.

The counties, as separate divisions are credited with a balance of $38,506 while the schools have $468,517 surplus which, the examiners said, increases because the amounts paid in greatly exceed the awards made. The examiners recommend that payments from the schools be stopped and the surplus placed out on interest, pointing out that the interest, totalling $23,000, would exceed by $8,000 the amount required each year for the school division, according to past averages.

Supporting their statement that cities are unjustly "carried" by the low hazard districts, the examiners stated that Cleveland paid in $183,948 and was awarded $416,448; Columbus paid in $61,178 and was awarded $129,290; Cincinnati paid in $63,778 and was awarded $95,299; Toledo paid in $36,948 and was awarded $62,599; Akron paid in $24,388 and was awarded $25,260; Oungstown paid in $9,764 and was awarded $12,177.

Why Colds Lead to Pneumonia

When a cold is neglected it attacks the lining of the breathing passages. A then may lead to pneumonia. Father John's Medicine treats colds and helps to prevent pneumonia because it nourishes the system and drives out poisonous waste matter—any other way of treating a cold is likely to lead to pneumonia. Not a "cough syrup" or "balm" depending upon dangerous and weakened drugs, but a food medicine and body builder.

JOHN MACADAM—PEACE TO HIS ASHES SAY MILLIONS OF PEOPLE.

To most people there is always a subject that touches them "where they live"—the condition of the roads. Of course this applies more particularly to those who live in the country, for they have to get to their market town so often to sell or buy, where as those of us who live in town may seldom have anything to do with the roads, and consequently don't care whether they are good or bad. But the country man or woman, when the roads are bad, feel almost isolated—cut off from the world—only as the rural mail carrier daily brings papers or letters—thanks to that best of all fellows, that paternal dear old Uncle Sam. Long may he live and his shadow never grow less.

The roads, yes the roads—forget about them as most country people may nine months in the year—every Spring they are a "live wire" that no man living on them can forget—gravel roads, in some cases seemingly bottomless roads, the mud half a foot deep. Oh, for the day when every one of those in Greene County will give place to macadamized pikes.

To macadamize a road is to cover it with small broken stone and on top of these add a covering of cement, to form a smooth hard surface. Named from John L. Macadam, a Scotch engineer, who died in 1836. On the death of his father in 1770 he came to America and was so good a loyalist that in 1783 he was compelled to abandon America.

He returned to Great Britain where he spent the balance of his life in traveling over the country advocating the adoption of his plan for bettering the roads, and with such great success that he was accorded a public benefactor. He was offered Knighthood which he refused; but a similar offer was accepted by his son, James, road master in London, who died in 1852.

Excuse so much about John Macadam, but the world is so much indebted to him for good roads that we thought it his due. Every main road out of Xenia is a macadam pike and as long as you keep on it how thankful you are, and when you leave it, in the spring of the year, words fail to express your disgust with the roads. Peace to the ashes of John Macadam.

STANFORD STICKS TO SILK HAT THAT ONCE SO STIRRED THE MOONSHINERS.

Now that Edward Terry Sanford is about to take his seat on the Supreme Court bench, there will be no question about his right to wear a silk hat that whenever he wants to, but there was a time in Judge Sanford's career in Tennessee when the right was questioned.

Some years ago there were so many moonshine cases at Cookeville, Tenn., that a separate Federal Court was established there to try the mountain "kangaroos" instead of hauling them to Knoxville or Nashville together with the hundreds of witnesses. That being in Judge Sanford's circuit, it fell to his lot to take charge of the new court, the mountain coming to Mahomet.

When Judge Sanford arrived at the Cookeville Courthouse and before taking his seat on the elevated rostrum in front of the $4 pine table "bench" he failed to notice the scowls of his audience composed of moonshiners as he doffed his high silk hat, carefully rubbed its fur the right way with his handkerchief and set the headpiece behind his chair on the elevated platform.

While Judge Sanford was looking the other way one of the mountain cut-ups removed the "two-quart lid," scrubbed it the wrong way with a stiff wire brush and filled it full of water scooped from the nearest puddle and then replaced it at the Judge's back.

Judge Sanford returned to the hotel wearing a cheap wool hat, but there wasn't room in the Cookeville jail for all the moonshiners sentenced at that term of court.

IS IT HEROIC TO BE DISLOYAL?

Two sensational New York pulpites have recently gained additional notoriety by announcing that they do not believe in the fundamental doctrines of the organization from which their salaries are derived. Instead of getting out of these churches they propose to stay inside, inveigh against the regularly declared doctrines of these communions, and attain martyrdom, if possible, by heresy trials.

When any member of a church or a political party or any other organization having a doctrinal basis ceases to accept the fundamentals of its faith, there is just one honest and decent thing for him to do, and that is to quietly get out. There is plenty of room outside of any organization for the man who has ceased to believe in it. To wear the uniform of a country and try to wreck it, to wear the livery of a church and use the pulpit of the church to attack it, reveals a moral defect that is more important than any question of belief. The man who does this and heralds himself as a hero, is a very long way from being that.

Why does a man who does not believe in the underlying doctrines of the Protestant Episcopal church want to be an Episcopal rector? Why does a man who has ceased to hold to the cardinal tenets of the Baptist Church wish to continue to be a Baptist minister?

Fidelity is one of the finest traits in human character. The man who parades disloyalty as a virtue may gain the applause of the enemies of the institution with which he breaks faith, but in the eyes of people whose opinions are worth while he is not making a very pleasant spectacle of himself.

BETTER TIMES AND LESS UNEMPLOYMENT.

Despite the calamities predicted by the free traders should the Fordney-McCumber tariff be enacted into a law, there are recurring indications that business is improving, unemployment diminishing, and that the year 1923 will be a year of tremendous revival.

One of the benefits of the protective tariff whenever tried is the employment of wage-earners at good wages. This benefit was promised by the protectionists, and is in evidence now.

Industrial concerns in all parts of the United States report further increases in numbers of employees during November and December. Since October 1st, 1922, it is officially stated that 1,428 firms added over 97,000 to their force of employees. In the three months period ending November 1, 1923, these concerns increased their forces by 126,000.

Eastern industrial districts report a strong demand for many types of skilled labor and for common labor, whereas the agricultural districts report a growing demand for ordinary labor. The demand for common labor, it is said, exceeds the supply.

Already the leaven of protection is working.

Through the Dominion Government, Canada has established 20 experimental farms that have done valuable work in the science of agriculture.

THE COMPELLING POWER BACK OF THE RUHR MOVEMENT

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

Work has been commenced on the addition to the Xenia Cordage mill on the Cincinnati pike for which McCurran Brothers, have the contract. The building will be extended from the rear and the new addition will be a two story brick.

It is reported that in the early spring there will be one and probably two automobiles spinning along our streets.—Zimmerman News.

While it has been known that the overhead bridge on South Detroit Street, was in some manner defective and the workman hustled about the other day to make repairs the true facts regarding it were kept carefully concealed from the public. In some manner the discovery was made that the flange on the iron girder supporting the ties had a crack in it ten or twelve feet long. Had not this been discovered the result would have been something terrible as it would have resulted in one of the heavy engines going through the bridge onto Detroit Street, at a possible loss of life and property.

THE TEA-GOWN HABIT.

I know a woman who said that the greatest comfort she had in life was a tea-gown. She adored tea-gowns and pretty negligees and her clever fingers made up the most charming creations from old frocks and add lengths of bargain counter material. When her husband died and she was left with no insurance and only $50 capital she invested the money in some attractive bits of silk lace and turned her living room into a tea-gown shop. She now has a very well paying business.

I am not writing this particularly to encourage you to go into business for yourself. Making tea-gowns or kimono requires a special gift. You are more restricted in style, therefore, more dependent upon exquisite workmanship and the effect of color and material. Slipshod work and mater-off and over the foundation, drape something that is sheer and shimmering. If they were originally of silk that has soiled, they can be freshened and the flaws hidden by a chiffon overdress. The easiest negligee to make the prettiest, I think, are those with straight classic lines, made of three and one-quarter yards of material sewed up the sides with a looseness line cut out. These drape divinely.

Patrick:—When the hands become as hardened as yours it is well to wear cosmetic gloves during the sleeping hours. I will be glad to mail you directions for making these if you are unable to purchase them.

A Friend: The best cure for nits is to saturate scalp and hair with kerosene and tie up in a towel overnight. Next day shampoo with hot water and soap and saturate again with vinegar. Go over the hair with a fine tooth comb dipped in vinegar and shampoo a second time.

Catharine B:—Constantly red hands often indicate nothing more serious than a slight disturbance of the circulation. Tight corsets or garters are frequently the cause.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations by using the well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. ## AUTO-SUGGESTION.

"Day after day, in every way, methinks I'm getting better;" I spring this spiel at every meal, and it has cured my tetter. In olden times I wrote my rhymes in pain and bitter sorrow; though I took pills for many ills, no comfort could I borrow. All kinds of dope, with waning hope, I used to sadly swallow; if I knocked out the mumps or gout, some other ill would follow. And then I heard of one wise bird who cured men by suggestion; he'd heal man's aches in seven shakes, and never ask a question. I learned by heart his motto smart, that broke disease's fetter; "day after day, in every way, I'm surely getting better." My face was bare of waving hair, which kept the jokers jesting, but now my beard is wide and weird, and birds are in it nesting. With spavined knees I walked the leas, and limped up to my attic; but now I prance and leap and dance, and pull stunts acrobatic. I'm full of pep, with buoyant step my errands I'm pursuing, while neighbors gaze in wild amazement, gadzooking and beshrewing. For well they know that long ago I was a wreck unsightly; and it is strange to note the change, to see me blithe and sprightly. If you are sick, oh, gentle hick, repeat this healing story: "Day after day, in every way, I'm growing hunkydory."

SEEKS DIVORCE FROM TWO LEGAL HUSBANDS

Norristown, Pa., Feb. 5.—For the first time in the history of the local courts a woman has started actions to be divorced from two legally wedded husbands. The woman who is asking the court to rid her of both of them is Mrs. Lillie Kocher, of this place.

According to the story which she told the court, she first married William Kocher, whose name she uses, in January, 1895. Eight years later, she says, he deserted her and that for the next six years she did not hear from him. Believing him dead, she then married George Gaston. In 1917 she received reliable information her former husband was living. She then separated from Gaston. Since that time they have not lived together. Now Mrs. Kocher wants to be legally freed of her marriage to both of them.

CAESARCREEK HIGH WINS CLOSE CONTEST

Home Overwhelms Visitors

The O. S. & S. O. Home Cadets easily defeated the Dayton Wolverines Saturday at the Armory hall by a 67 to 2 score. The game was fair but the visitors did not have much when it came to offense, if they could have made baskets as well as they passed the ball the game might have been interesting.

It was quite a while before the Cadets got going. To be exact it was three minutes before Turney started things by looping one through from the center of the floor. Nolan then came through with one from underneath the basket, Caldwell and Brewster followed with long shots in rapid succession. The visitors got their only score of the game right at this moment when Lehman looped one through from midfloor. Nolan and Turney then came through with baskets and from this time on the locals kept hitting the net with much regularity. The first half ended with the score 28 to 2.

The locals really displayed some mean basketball in the second half. Their defense was also tight and the visitors did not get a single score. The passwork and basketshooting of Coach Sheet's gang was the only feature.

BIG COURT CARD ON TAP.

By Wones.

Fans who journey to the new high school gym Tuesday night will be furnished with three interesting games. The first contest will bring together the Famous Five and the Merchants. Both of these teams are being traveling at a fast clip. The Merchants are leaders in the league and so far have not lost a single game, while on the other hand the Famous have been strengthened by Bud Pratt, Monk Day and several other stars. The Famous showed that they have the stuff last Tuesday night when they handled the L. E. John Emeralds a drubbing. These two teams are just about evenly matched and will no doubt put up a great battle.

In the second game of the evening the Presto-Lites and the Ohio Bells teams from Dayton will tangle. Both these teams are in the Girls Industrial league at Dayton and on last Friday night the Presto-Lites defeated the Bells in a spirited contest, when the final whistle blew the Bells trailing by two points. It took an overtime period to decide the contest. This should be another good game. The Bells will present their same lineup with Semedley and Shade at the forwards, Wagner at the tip off position and Reeves and Pabst at the guards while the Presto-Lites will use Wilkins and Russell at the forwards, Baker at center and Elliott and Hansen at the guards. Harry Solimano who plays with the Famous Autos, coaches the Presto-Lites.

In the main game of the evening the Famous Autos will take on the N. C. R. Tigers. In stacking up against this team the locals will just have there hands full as the Gem City combination have a powerful ful team. The N. C. R. bunch have been holding down a front position in one of the leagues all this season and their opponents have found them a stumbling block.

The locals will use Barlow and Mark at the forward positions while Solimano or Koester will jump center and Solowitz and Kohely will look after the guarding. The lineup of the N. C. R. five is not known but the two Clayton brothers will be with the team. The first game will get under way at 7 P. M. sharp with L. Rachford handling the whistle.

Boils Quit Quick!

S. S. S. Will Prove to You in Your Own Case the "How" and "Why" of its Remarkable Blood-Cleansing Power!

There is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S. S. S. builds blood-purifier, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It always wins! It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It builds nerve-power, thinking power, the tight-fisted power that whips a man up into success. It gives women the health, the angelic complexion and the charm that moves the world! These are the reasons that have made S. S. S. today the great blood-cleanser, body-builder, success builder, and it's why results have made tears of joy flow from the souls of thousands! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 557 15th St., Washington, D. C., writes:

Pimples May be Small Boils!

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it." Try it yourself. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

FATE OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE RESTS ON TUESDAY MEETING

The fate of the Xenia Chamber of Commerce will be decided at the meeting to be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the organization rooms, President Karl Bloom said Monday.

"It is a case of thumbs up or thumbs down for the organization and the matter will be decided by the number of thumbs that are present for counting Tuesday evening," said Mr. Bloom.

Directors are hoping to have a large representation of the membership present or an open discussion of the problems of the Chamber of Commerce. If the attendance does not indicate sufficient interest in its affairs steps will be taken to dissolve the organization.

WOMEN DON'T LIKE OFFICER'S FACE SO THEY WANT HIM FIRED

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 5.—If you don't like his face, fire him!

Mrs. W. T. Graham, vice-president of the Nebraska W. C. T. U., "doesn't like the face of U. S. Rohrer," Federal prohibition director for this district. She said so right out in meeting. Then the W. C. T. U. passed a resolution asking Governor Chas. W. Bryan to "fire" his new State Sheriff, Tom Carroll.

No objection was set forth by the women to Carroll's face. But the new sheriff has been one of Rohrer's test little "run hounds."

Sheriffs of every county in Nebraska, in annual session at the same time the W. C. T. U. was meeting, put a unanimous O. K. on Carroll and sent a resolution of congratulations to Governor Bryan on his choice of a law enforcement officer.

Bryan decided he wouldn't be justified in dropping a perfectly sound and well-trained sheriff merely because he had worked for an officer who admits he isn't a "ladies man."

Rohrer says he isn't offended by the observations of Mrs. Graham. "I have realized for some time," he said, "that I am no Apollo. In fact, I don't like my own face. But I have put up with it in close association much longer than has Mrs. Graham, and I'm still fairly robust."

"If anyone has a handsome young face to swap I'm open to proposals."

HUSBAND WHO USED CLUB IS BANISHED

That he struck his wife with a club and chased her with a hatchet were allegations brought against Henry Corper, colored, by his wife Saturday night, when she filed charges of drunk and disorderly in police court.

She was bleeding profusely from a wound which bore out her complaint of having been struck by a club. The attack was made at the home of the couple on East Market Street. Patrolmen Simms and Creamer placed Corper under arrest. He was fined $50 and costs and was given a sentence of thirty days in the Dayton Work House by Police Judge E. Dawson Smith Monday morning.

LIKE A NEW MAN STATES BROWN

Cleveland Citizen Says Stomach Trouble is no More—Tanlac Again Proves Merit

"I'm not surprised that Tanlac is called the 'World's Greatest Tonic,' for it has set me to feeling like a new man," recently said John H. Brown, 2834 Washington Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

"My troubles were treating me pretty rough before I got Tanlac. My appetite lost its edge, my digestion stalled on me, and there was gas, sourness and burning in my stomach after every meal. Headaches, backaches and dizzy spells bobbed up and put me on the rack repeatedly. I couldn't half sleep and mornings I felt so bad it was hard for me to peel off my coat and get down to work."

"Well, I took Tanlac to put me back in shape, and three bottles, just half the full treatment has made me feel like a man made over. I can pull and tug like a two-year-old now, and I never pass an opportunity to tell others about this great medicine."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.

DISTRICT HOSPITAL
NOW IN GOOD SHAPE

An era of better things for the District Tuberculosis Hospital at Springfield is at hand, through the co-operation of the citizens who appreciate the value of the institution to the community it serves. It is the opinion of Dr. C. E. M. Finney, superintendent of the institution.

New nurses have been engaged to take the places of three who resigned during the last 10 days. Stoves have been procured for the institution through the donation of a Springfield citizen, and through gifts promised the hospital, it is planned to install an electric call bell system, according to Dr. Finney.

COW EMULATED GOAT
IN SELECTING GRUB

Kendallville, Ind., Feb. 5.—George Dull, residing near here, is wondering what relation his cow was to the goat family.

The animal was noted for giving a large quantity of rich milk and had a wonderful "constitution." Recently the cow became sick and refused to eat, although she previously had had a big "appetite" and unusual digestive organs. Finally she refused to give milk and died a few days after.

Dull called a veterinarian, who performed a post mortem. In the cow's stomach were found four pieces of baling wire, a varied assortment of small nails and tacks and other iron articles. One piece of baling wire protruded through the stomach. The contents of the stomach worked through the channel made into the lung by the wire and the sack in the lung continued to expand until it entirely supplanted the lung. The contents of the stomach filled a twelve quart pail and weighed 29 pounds.

Styles

Whatever fanciful variations may govern the silhouette of ordinary frocks, sport clothes still hold to the straight and narrow.

This season the smart young woman costumes herself in heavy fibre silk for sport events, of which a typical interpretation is illustrated in the three-piece model sketched today. The blending of colors is skillful. Egyptian blue with henna is interwoven in a background of deep cream, and the sleeveless jacket is edged with solid henna.

Bothered With Stomach Trouble for a Long Time, Ka-di-ok Quickly Relieved Her, She Says.

Mrs. Jennie Pinney, who resides at 174½ East Main Street, says: "I had a bad case of stomach trouble which lasted a considerable time. I had very little relish for food, but everything I did eat disagreed with me and failed to digest. Gas formed on my stomach, causing distressing pains and headaches. I began to think I had chronic indigestion, as I was unable to obtain any relief to overcome this condition. I became very nervous and felt worn out and tired all the time. My sleep failed to bring me any rest. I was depressed and despondent, and as time went by I despaired of getting better. I was induced finally to try Ka-di-ok, but having doctoring myself for months, I had little faith that it would help me. I am thankful to say that Ka-di-ok has done me a world of good. I now eat everything I like without any further trouble from indigestion. I have taken quite a few bottles of Ka-di-ok and my health today is as good as ever it was. I always keep a bottle on hand and take an occasional dose whenever I think I need it."

Ka-di-ok can be obtained at Sayre & Hemphill's Drug Store, Xenia.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The CHEERFUL CHERUB

To rebel against misfortune
Is sometimes weak and blind.
A loss of wealth can often bring
New riches to the mind.

A captivating sweater is the one worn by the accompanying figure. The simple white with red border and monogram or emblem is refreshing after the recent deluge of Navajo sweaters. Incidentally, for the plump figure, this style the snug band, which permits slight blousing, is more becoming than the straight models.

Into a saucepan put one cup of sweet milk and heat to the boiling point; then stir into it one tablespoon of flour and two tablespoons of butter (rubbed together) and let cook until smooth and thick, stirring constantly. Mix the parboiled liver with the yolk of one raw egg, then mix with cream sauce. Leave it on a plate to cool. Chapters From A Woman's Life

TRUST AND FAITH MEAN HAPPINESS

CHAPTER 96

Mrs. Page seemed glad to see me too was kind in her inquiries after my people. But it seemed my happiness was too great to bear when she said:

"I think now that Jack is getting such a big boy, and I live with you, that I should like to have you call me 'mother,' Doreen. I have missed you, my daughter."

"Oh, may I? I have always wanted to," I exclaimed.

That night I laid awake trying to realize the wonderful happiness that was mine.

How could I ever have thought I could give it up?

And Walter loved me! Cared nothing for anyone else. Some day I would perhaps tell him I had overheard what Vashti Vernon had said, that I had overheard it, and ask him what she meant, but not until a long time had passed; and never again would I doubt my husband's love. I knew, only too well, that he would often distress me.

With his nature that was inevitable but never again would I let anything make me lose faith in him.

We had both been excited and I had not noticed how worn and tired my husband looked until the morning when I spoke of it.

"I guess it's partly because I missed you so, but before you left I felt rather rotten. I wanted Vashti to sit for another picture and she refused. Told me we were neither strong enough to go on without a rest. But I'll be all right now you are back."

He took me in his arms and kissed me. While I—

So that was what Miss Vernon meant when she said they were neither of them strong enough. How every thing was being cleared up, all my doubts and fears dispelled. How unnecessarily I had suffered.

"You and Walter take a run down to Atlantic City over the week end," Mrs. Page said at breakfast. "Walter looks seedy. He missed you terribly, Doreen, although I did my best to fill your place; but I imagine we are too much alike in disposition to be restful for each other. It will be my treat and don't stint yourselves in any way."

"Just the thing Mater! What do you say, dear?"

"I should love it!" I replied, wondering if my heart would not break with happiness as I had believed it would with sorrow.

"When we came back, Doreen," Walter said in his boyish way, I guess you'd better join that Civic Purity League. I've been going to the meetings with the Mater and she converted."

How like him! He would stop at nothing while in his present mood to please me, and later when he was in another frame of mind, I would remember and not fret. I would remember he was an artist that he could not be judged as other men are judged in many ways, that his enthusiasms his love of beauty, his peculiar temperament, his inconsequential boyishness.

—that I had thought strong enough to enable me to give up so he could be happy—was, strong enough to make allowance now that I was sure of his love.

I wrote mother from Atlantic City, I told her the trouble I had spoken of had been all adjusted, that Mrs. Page had asked me to call her mother, and that I was the happiest girl in the world.

My letter must have read like a peace of thankfulness for when she replied she said:

"I was sure my dead that God would help you; that everything would come out all right. Trust Him always, dear."

As I look back at the years that have passed, chapters in my life, that seemed so filled with vital interest to me, I wonder if after all they are so different, save in incident, from what happens in the life of other women?

We marry, full of youth, hope, and a self-centered idea that the world was made for our happiness.

We find thorns instead of flowers, we experienced disappointments, and we have neither the faith or the unselfishness to surmount them; to know that happiness consists in service, not in demands. That love means faith and trust, not doubts.

Then comes the time when realizing all these things we adjust ourselves and start another, fuller life, unselfish, trusting, that makes for a purer, happiness; a fuller life for ourselves and for those we love.

And if the retelling of my useless suffering in those early years of my married life help even one woman to a greater faith and trust, I shall not feel I have transcribed these chapters in my own life in vain.
